

BANK NOTIFIES DEPOSITORS TO OBTAIN MONEY

Precedent is Set as Institution Asks Customers to Get Money
FIRST IN HISTORY
Podr Business Given As Reason for Closing

CHICAGO, Sept. 29.—Believed to have established a precedent in financial history, the Mayfair State Savings Bank today continued to pay depositors who came by invitation to its doors.

T. B. McGrath, president of the bank, declared he expected to complete repayment of the entire $600,000 on deposit before night-fall.

The "friendly run" on the institution began after all depositors had received letters notifying them that the bank is liquidating and closing voluntarily. Falling off in deposits and earnings was given as the reason for the bank's decision.

The depositors were requested to withdraw their money.

But some of them were convinced that the bank was about to close only after much persuasion, according to President McGrath.

STATE CASE OF KIND

State Auditor Oscar Nelson said this was the only case of its kind in banking history, as far as he knows.

More than $200,000 was withdrawn by depositors of the bank yesterday. Carrying their bank books and letters notifying them of the decision to close, about 200 depositors gathered in front of the institution before the doors opened. They were met personally by President McGrath who explained to them that the officers and directors had decided to close the bank because the earnings could no longer cover operating expenses and yield a fair profit.

McGrath also announced that every depositor will be paid in full and expressed the conviction that stockholders would receive a good dividend.

REFUSE TO WITHDRAW

Many depositors urged President McGrath to reconsider the decision. Others departed without withdrawing their money. McGrath said there were instances of paying tellers being forced to argue with depositors in order to persuade them to accept their money.

The president also said numerous other banks and investment houses had requested him to recommend these institutions as depositories.

"I am quitting the banking business," McGrath said. "I told my customers it is up to them where they take their money. I have no recommendations."

The Mayfair State Savings Bank was established in 1926.

Sixty-five per cent of the stock was held by McGrath and George M. Gatschow, chairman of the board.

OHIO SUPREME COURT MEETS

Two Important Cases, That of Building and Loan, and Bridge, Before Group.

COLUMBUS, O., Sept. 29.—Ending a summer vacation which began last June, the Ohio Supreme court today opened its Fall term. The session will continue almost without interruption until next summer's recess.

The court calendar calls for the disposition of 25 cases on the merits and decisions on about 100 motions by the end of October. Most of these cases, it was expected, will involve the submission of oral arguments to the court.

Cases that were scheduled for hearings today included those of the Columbus Building & Loan Company of Columbus, and the Mayville Bridge case.

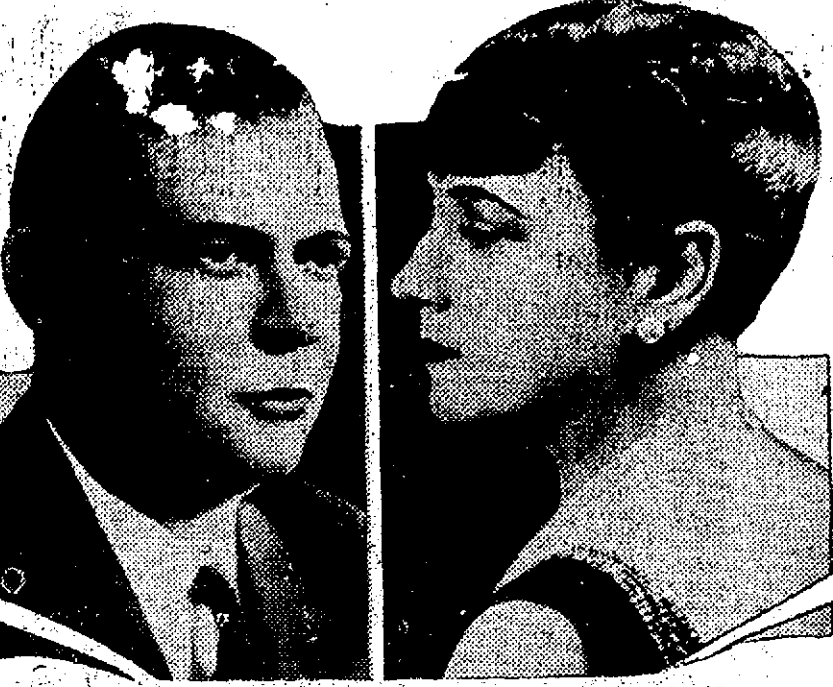

A decision is sought in the building and loan case by Attorney General Gilbert Bettman that will prevent the common pleas court from appointing receivers for building and loan associations except where such application is made by the attorney general on behalf of the state building and loan superintendent.

James T. Pickering, Lancaster, Doesn't Even Lose Hat in Crash Here.

James T. Pickering, well-known Lancaster attorney, miraculously escaped injury at 10:15 a. m. Tuesday when his Ford sedan turned over on the Lancaster-pk. east of the Marion greenhouse.

Mr. Pickering, riding alone, was enroute to this city where he had legal business in the court house. As he neared the greenhouse he attempted to pass a large oil truck. Mr. Pickering said. He stated he blew the horn of his automobile for quite a distance then started to go around the truck. He said he was traveling about 35 miles an hour. Just as he drew beside the truck he said the driver turned his automobile slightly to the left of the road.

"BECAME FRIGHTENED"

The attorney became frightened, he said, and before he knew what was happening his automobile had turned over in the ditch. The Ford truck completely over and then fell on its side, landing on Mr. Pickering's car. He was extracted from his car by the driver of the oil truck which he had tried to pass.

Mr. Pickering did not even lose his hat in the accident. His keys fell out of his pocket and were found in the rear seat of the car after the wreck.

The Ford, which was driven away under its own power, was damaged considerably about the top and considerable glass was broken.

'Do You Whistle?' Then You're Moron, Shaw Says

NEW YORK, Sept. 29.—Do you whistle?

If so, you simply broadcast the fact that you are a moron, according to Dr. Charles Gray Shaw, professor of philosophy at New York University, who made known his views today.

"No great or successful man ever whistles," he asserted. "Can you imagine Einstein Edison or Mussolini turning up to 'Just one more chance' or President Hoover as whistling?"

Dr. Shaw said whistling might be called the "defense mechanism" of the simple-minded.

"Whistling to keep up one's courage," he explained, is just an artificial affirmation of bravery. A country boy walking home alone a lonely road at night was foolish to do it. Dr. Gray pointed out, since it betrayed his presence to any possible enemies.

"It is only the inferior and unadjusted individual who ever seeks emotional relief in such a bird-like act as whistling," he concluded.

SCIOTO TRAIL TO COLUMBUS LEADS ROADS

Survey Shows Road is Most Traveled in Highway Division

ROUTES MEET HERE
Delaware - Columbus Highway Ranks Next

State route 23 between Circleville and Columbus is the most traveled highway in the sixth state highway division, according to information obtained Tuesday. A survey conducted recently by the state highway department disclosed that more automobiles travel between Circleville and Columbus and vice versa than on any highway in Franklin, Fayette, Morrow, Union, Madison, Marion or Delaware-co.

Figures were not produced to show the amount of traffic over this highway but the survey disclosed the fact, it was reported.

OTHER HIGHWAYS

Other roads which carry much traffic in this division were the Columbus and Delaware road, ranking second to the Circleville-Columbus-pk.; the National-pk running east and west through Franklin-co ranking third and the Cleveland, Columbus and Cincinnati highway, commonly known as the 3-C highway, being fourth.

Many persons were of the opinion that the 3-C highway was the most traveled and others named the National-pk.

The fact that several important roads carrying much traffic, including that from Chillicothe, from Washington C. H., from Laureville and Athens and some from Lancaster, converge here then go into Columbus, lends strength to the statement that Route 23 carries the most.

EARLY SNOW REPORTED

COLUMBUS, O., Sept. 29.—Federal weather observer, William H. Alexander dug into the weather bureau's dust covered diaries today to learn whether a record early date for the first snow fall was set yesterday and Sunday.

"First snows" were reported at Dayton and Youngstown and Alexander placed more credit in the stories than the home town friends of the persons who said they saw the first flurries.

Friends of Mosier McCullister at Youngstown were inclined to "josh" him when he said he saw snow an inch thick on trees in his neighborhood at 5 a. m., Sunday.

They laughed louder when he said the rain came at six a. m., and washed the snow away.

McCullister, however, declared he could produce nine other men who also saw the snow.

Friends of Charles Thomas, Dayton aviation student, labeled his report an entry for the "tall story club." He said his plane ran into "a heavy fall of large snowflakes lasting several seconds."

Weather Observer Alexander said snow at this time of year is entirely possible, although he said he never heard of snow an inch thick this early in the fall.

NEAR ACCIDENT ON N. & W. HERE

Tank Car Filled With Asphalt Leaves Rails But No Damage Is Reported.

An accident, that might have reached serious proportions, occurred at the street grade crossing of the Northern Ohio railroad at midnight Monday when a tank car in a freight train left the track.

Something went wrong with the coupling between the tank car and the one adjoining it causing the tank car, which was filled with asphalt, to leave the rails. The car was put back on the tracks and the train proceeded southward.

Usually this freight, which is termed a "special," goes through the city at a fast rate of speed, but Monday evening the engineer said he was not traveling more than 20 miles an hour, making it possible for him to stop almost at once.

Fire Department Chief Gives Rules For Nation's Fire Prevention Week

Chief Talmer Wise of the local fire department, in accordance with President Herbert Hoover's proclamation for Fire Prevention Week from Oct. 4 to Oct. 10, appeals to every citizen to do his part in promoting safety of life and property.

Chief Wise points out that fire is also a great menace to America's prosperity and will continue to take a heavy toll unless the public makes a determined campaign against it, not for only one week but for the entire year.

MAKES SUGGESTIONS

A few suggestions which might well be followed by residents of the city were made by the chief:

"Begin by clearing out all useless material and rubbish.

"Clean chimneys, flues and pipes of soot.

"Don't make your own electric installations or repairs or overload the line because you need more base plugs. An experienced electrician's service is cheapest and safest in the end. Always use the proper fuses. Disconnect all electrical devices when not in use.

"Dispose of matches and smoking materials carefully.

"Gasoline and other volatile liquids are dangerous cleaning fluids. Use only safe compounds.

"Look for gas leaks with a flashlight—never use a flame light. Soap suds applied to the 'suspected' place will reveal the leak by bubbles.

"Walls, ceilings and partitions should be shielded from stove, furnaces and pipes.

"Use only fire-resistant materials and leave no open places back of walls when building or remodeling a structure.

"Open fireplaces should always be screened and gas lights turned off tightly when not in use.

"Use metal cans for ashes.

"Learn where the nearest fire alarm box is located and what to do in case of fire."

Coolidge Hands His Support To Herbert Hoover

Statement of Former President in Publication Causes Political Stir
BREAKS SILENCE
Stand of Popular Man Now Not in Doubt

BY GEORGE R. BOLLINGER
WASHINGTON, Sept. 29.—Coolidge's announcement in the current issue of the Saturday Evening Post that he does not propose to be a candidate for the Republican presidential nomination in 1932, and that he considers it the duty of all good Republicans to support Herbert Hoover in a second term, caused a political sensation in Washington today.

"Not since Coolidge's resignation in 1923 has any statement of Mr. Coolidge's created such a profound stir in political circles," declared Mr. C. O. Coffey, a prominent Republican leader.

His 1923 statement was emphatic and susceptible of many interpretations, but in his current pronouncement Mr. Coolidge leaves no doubt as to his stand. He is going to support Mr. Hoover.

Republican leaders were quick to predict that Mr. Coolidge's appeal to the party to rally behind Mr. Hoover would be the last faint glimmering possibility of denying Mr. Hoover re-election next June.

Mr. Coolidge's statement is the only real threat to Mr. Hoover's re-nomination in the opinion of party leaders, and now that he has effaced himself as completely, and coupled with it so far-reaching an appeal for general party support, his successor there is no doubt Mr. Hoover from any quarter.

"Coolidge's withdrawal from the race and support of Mr. Hoover is a political master stroke," declared Mr. C. O. Coffey, a prominent Republican leader.

It has been rumored in Washington quarters for some time that "at least one" of the Coolidge would support Mr. Hoover in the race in a campaign next year. Only a few days ago, however, the rumor was that a secret plan to the party to get behind his successor.

Some of the more carefully minded who always refused to accept the 1923 statement as final, were inclined today to interpret Mr. Coolidge's current announcement in terms of 1923. In that year, if he is re-elected, Mr. Hoover will be ineligible under the written law for presidential re-election. As Mr. Coolidge said, he still be eligible from a practical point. He will be it.

NEW CLUE IN DEATH SEEN

Body Is Found Near Where Collings' Yacht Was Anchored Fatal Night.

HUNTINGTON, N. Y., Sept. 29.—A possible clue to the murder mystery of Benjamin P. Collings, Stamford yachtman, was seen today in the finding of the body of a man about 45 years old at Eaton's neck, near where the Collings cruiser was anchored on the night of the murder.

The man weighed 165 pounds, was 5 feet 8 inches tall, wore blue overalls, a blue shirt and a leather belt on which a buckle bore the initial "Z." It was believed possible that the man might be the elder of the two assailants who boarded the cruiser and killed Collings, according to his wife's story.

Assistant District Attorney Frederick J. Minder, one of the authorities investigating the Collings murder, assigned several deputy sheriffs to make a careful examination of the body with a view to comparing its description with that of the elder of the two men described by Mrs. Collings.

ROSS-CO HEALTHER SEEKING IMMUNIZATION FROM FEVER

CHILLICOTHE, (Sp.)—Sept. 29—An extensive campaign of immunization against typhoid fever was recommended as an advisable thing for the rural districts of Ross county by Dr. R. E. Bower, health commissioner, in a report to the county board of health at its regular meeting.

Effects of last year's drought on the health of the public has been manifest in two ways, Dr. Bower stated, diseases due to insufficient food, especially to lack of variety of food, and to bad water supplies.

In many places, he said, it was necessary to take drinking water from polluted streams with a consequent increase in typhoid and other intestinal diseases. Some states and cities have put on extensive immunization campaigns.

Typhoid has increased markedly in Ross county this year and last. At present there are 15 families in the county with typhoid, all mild cases, with no deaths resulting so far.

However, the health commissioner warns that the disease is a serious one of time for the patient and heavy expense for medical care.

"Typhoid can be prevented and it would pay to prevent it," Dr. Bower says. The health department is prepared to immunize free of charge those who are unable to pay their family doctor for the service.

A diphtheria situation in Vinton county is being watched by the local health authorities, since Vinton county is the only county in the state without a health department, it is necessary for the Ross county department to look after the outbreak as a matter of self protection.

Quite a number of cases have been reported near the Ross county border and a close check is being made on schools where children of some of these families were in attendance.

At present there are no diphtheria cases in the county and only one in the city.

Since the opening of school, the commissioner reported, four cases of scarlet fever have been reported in the county. None were known before the schools opened. The inference of the department is that the cases were overlooked before the opening of schools, but with school in session any illness among the children is investigated.

With teachers and nurses looking for evidence of illness in the pupils, diseases are found that are not noticed in the busy home life of the vacation period.

Miss Grace Barker and the new nurse, Miss Margaret Noth, have been busy in school work, the report stated. Miss Noth is working in the U. S. Public health service as a part of the drought relief work sponsored by the federal government.

Health Commissioner Bower also reported on the annual meeting of the American Public Health Association at Montreal, from which he recently returned.

Begin with trail marker No. 1 in the small circle at the left. If you can follow this trail through the tangle you will see it leads to the car marked "E." Some of the trails go from left to right, others from right to left. When you have done your best with each trail, write your answer like this: "Trail No. 1 leads to car 'E.'" "Trail No. 2 leads to car..." and so on with all the trails. If you prefer, you can draw straight lines from each marker to the correct cars.

EVEN KINGS HAVE WORRIES

THE MYSTERY OF GERALDINE

by ANTHONY ABBOT

On Christmas Eve young and pretty Geraldine Foster disappeared from the office of Dr. Humphrey Maskell, where she was employed. Mrs. Morgan, Maskell's neighbor, corroborates his statement that he distributed gifts with her daughter that afternoon. Geraldine had broken her engagement with Harry Armstrong. It was also learned that the mysterious Euphrasia Foster, who had written "Geraldine," is a woman. A black and white photograph of the missing girl, leads Police Commissioner Thatcher Colt to a deserted house on Pedler's Road. Outside a window, he finds seven dead blood-stained pigeons. The interior of the house is a tawdry. Colt comes upon a bloody axe and a strand of blond hair. Betty Canfield, Geraldine's roommate, identifies the body of a nude woman, found buried a short distance away, as that of the missing girl. A pillow case covers the ground. Although the surrounding ground is dry, the grave contains a pine-scented fluid. The medical examiner states she was dead not more than 36 hours.

CHAPTER XV

THE doctor smiled with an air of superior knowledge. "Impossible, Mr. Commissioner. The state of the body tells me it has not been dead more than forty-eight hours, at the utmost." Thatcher Colt made no reply, but his sombre eyes, staring into space, seemed to be contemplating some infernal mystery that puzzled and horrified him. He remained there, while a detective, at his orders, scraped the refuse from under the dead girl's finger-nails and deposited it in separate envelopes, each marked to identify the finger and hand from which it had been taken. This procedure, a piece of modern police technique, has helped in the solution of many baffling crimes, but in no case did it play a more erratic part than in the curious mystery in which we were now engaged. Then Sergeant Wickes from the Statistical and Criminal Identification Bureau, inked the dead girl's finger tips and took the black impression of her whorls and loops.

The Hunt Organized.

Meanwhile, Neil McMahon had been filling in the blank spaces on a tag known in the Department as U. E. No. 95, which is placed on the wrist of each of all dead bodies in homicide cases. Finally, the body was carried out to a patrol wagon, waiting to carry it downtown, and Doctor Multooler proposed at once to follow it.

"When can I have your final report?" asked Thatcher Colt, as the doctor was departing.

"Some time before morning. Shall I send it to you and not to the District Attorney?"

"Please send it to my office at Headquarters. I shall be waiting for it."

The Assistant Medical Examiner looked a little bewildered, but bowed and departed.

We heard the two cars snorting and driving off down the narrow descent of Pedler's Road, while Thatcher Colt and I stood in the kitchen and waited for reports. Already the hunt was organized, with that skilful military precision which Thatcher Colt had brought to the Department, just as the hunts were being secured, so very detail of the case was also being taken over. Some of the men were making notes of the surroundings, with special regard to the distance and relative position of house and grave, trees and road. Maps were actually being drawn of these things, some day to be enlarged and shown to a jury. The layout of the house, the position of the furniture, the details of the crime and its locale were being assembled. One of the first results of this systematic search was the finding of two large bottles, several hundred feet distant from the grave. They were brought in by Detective Schwaab, and Thatcher Colt received them with great interest.

Worthy of Consideration.

"Remember," he said, "that Geraldine Foster—or at least a girl resembling her—was seen leaving the house in Washington Square, in company with another woman, and both carried large bottles, just like this, and also just like another in the back room of Maskell's suite of offices. We should give more thought to those bottles, later, Tony."

He paused and smiled at me.

"For your peace of mind," he disclosed, "I have sent Betty Canfield down to Headquarters to wait mind, no patience with abstractions of any kind, and feared indecision as some men fear poverty. Soon learned that Dougherty had kept himself informed about the police search for Geraldine Foster and was fairly familiar with the details of the case.

"Well, Colt," he said, "you hunch was right. It was murder—and a pretty messy one. I have decided to take personal charge of the affair, and you mark my words, I shall bring the murderer to the electric chair so quickly that it will be a lesson to the whole county."

Thatcher Colt emptied his pipe and proceeded to refill it as he replied:

"I shall certainly be glad to have your cooperation, Dougherty."

"What do you mean by that?" blurted the District Attorney.

"I thought I might take a hand in solving this business myself," drawled Thatcher Colt.

"Conflict of authority?" barked Dougherty.

"Not at all, old fellow. As the ranking head of the Force, I am merely doing my constitutional for us. There are some questions which I will have to answer tonight. I am sorry to say that I had to procure her attendance for the autopsy, so that she can identify the body, and I have also telephoned for the poor parents of the dead girl for the same purpose. I shall also have to question them. Meanwhile, I think I hear the stentorian boom of a familiar voice."

"I thought I might take a hand in solving this business myself," drawled Thatcher Colt.

The next moment there came through the doorway, a huge man with curly hair, large, bold, blue eyes and prophetic jaw. The newcomer shook hands grimly with the Police Commissioner. He was that vital and magnetic Morrie Dougherty who was such a firebrand while he was District Attorney. "Hotspur" was Thatcher Colt's adjective for him. The two men disagreed on almost every known subject, with the exception of their liking for certain German beers, and their admiration for each other.

Dougherty was known to have high political ambitions, and it was freely predicted that he would be Governor of New York before he received extreme unction. He had the distance and relative position of the corpse.

Nature Usually Warns Of Apoplectic Condition

While the Onset of This Disease Is Sudden, There Has Usually Been a Warning of Danger, Says Dr. Cope land, Explaining Trouble and Listing Precautions

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.

United States Senator from New York.

Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

WE seldom look at a newspaper without reading of a case of apoplexy. Most of the sudden deaths are due to this condition.

Apoplexy, or "stroke," as it is commonly called, is due to a rupture of a tiny artery in the brain. This break in the blood vessel permits a hemorrhage into the brain substance. Unconsciousness follows.

In cases of recovery, the patient is usually more or less paralyzed. The paralysis that occurs is usually opposite to the side of the brain where the hemorrhage took place.

The most common artery to rupture in apoplexy is a branch of a large vessel which is found on the right side of the brain. The paralysis is then found in the left side of the body.

The hemorrhage usually takes place in an area where the motor nerve fibers are centered. The fibers coming from this portion of the brain control movements of Mrs. R. B. Q.—What is cholecystitis? My husband is afflicted, can he be cured?

A.—This is inflammation of the gall bladder. Proper attention to the diet as well as general care should bring about results. For full particulars, see a self-addressed, stamped envelope and repeat your question.

K. C. Q.—Some time ago I hurt the muscle in my shoulder, it has the tongue, face, arms, hands and legs. Due to the pressure on the nerve cells caused by the hemorrhage, there is a loss of power of the parts of the body supplied by these particular nerves.

Apoplexy rarely, if ever, occurs in young adults. It is most common in persons beyond the age of fifty.

Such factors as high blood pressure, hardening of the arteries, heart disease, kidney disease and other constitutional disorders are usually the real cause of the conditions which are favorable to hemorrhage. The onset of the disease is sudden. But most persons have been warned in advance of the danger. They have known of the possibility of its occurrence.

Most cases follow immediately after severe exertion. This exertion may be in the form either of mental or of muscular exercise.

Many attacks of apoplexy occur after heavy meals. It is liable to follow any sudden effort or exercise after a meal which has not been given sufficient time to digest.

Emotional excitement, particularly anger, is a factor to be considered in the prevention of this sudden calamity. The quiet, untroubled person rarely succumbs to this catastrophe.

Care of the diet, hygiene, fresh air and sunshine, plus an adequate amount of rest, are vitally important for all individuals who present any signs of threatening apoplexy. It is certainly true in this disease that prevention is better than cure.

shown no improvement. What do you advise?

A.—Massage and diathermy treatments should prove helpful.

M. E. K. Q.—Will the continued use of a violet ray lamp, on the face, cause a growth of hair?

A.—No, not as a rule, but this treatment should be advised and taken under proper medical supervision. Copyright, 1931, by Newspaper Feature Service, Inc.

'Neighborize' Is Plea Of State

COLUMBUS, O.—Let's neighborize!

This slogan tersely characterizes the activities of relief organizations throughout Ohio which are cooperating with Governor George White's emergency relief committee in plans for aiding unemployed workers and destitute families during the coming fall and winter. "By neighborizing, we hope to escape the dole system and avoid the ravages of pauperization," declared Maj. E. O. Braught, executive secretary of the governor's relief committee.

Braught pointed out that members of the so-called "white-collar" class—persons who are "too proud to beg"—are among those who, hard hit by the industrial depression, must receive help.

Through the "neighborizing" expedient, residents of the same community resort to the practice which prevailed among the pioneer settlers who exchanged commodities without the use of money.

LOCAL GUIDANCE

Under the guidance of the local relief organizations, a farmer who has an abundance of some particular fruit or grain, but is in need of some other good products, is put in touch with some other resident of his community who is in a somewhat similar situation. They then exchange portions of their respective surplus products.

This system of exchange, also, is taking place between relief organizations situated in distant counties. Trucks belonging to the state highway department and to the Ohio National Guard are being used for this purpose.

These exchanges of relief supplies are brought about through the medium of Secretary Braught

AFTER 40 bowel trouble

Constipation may very easily become chronic after forty. And any continued constipation at that time of life may bring attacks of piles and a host of other unpleasant disorders.

Watch your bowels at any age. Guard them with particular care after forty. Whenever they need any help, remember a doctor should know what is best for them.

"Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin" is a doctor's prescription for the bowels. Tested by 47 years' practice, it has been found thoroughly effective in relieving constipation and its ills for men, women and children of all ages. It has proven perfectly safe even for babies. Made from fresh laxative herbs, pure pepsin and other harmless ingredients, it cannot gripe; will not sicken you or weaken you; can be used without harm as often as your breath is bad, or when your tongue is coated; whenever a headachy, bilious, gassy condition warns of constipation.

On Guard! FIRE PREVENTION WEEK OCTOBER 4TH TO 10TH

Thoughtful people throughout the United States will again observe Fire Prevention Week, as suggested by the President in his annual proclamation.

This year October 4th ushers it in. Commercial, civic, social and other organizations will hold appropriate meetings. Millions of school children will take part.

You can make a definite contribution to Fire Prevention Week by increasing your efforts to safeguard your own home and business.

STOCK FIRE INSURANCE

has always been an active factor in Fire Prevention Week—through the National Board of Fire Underwriters and other organizations, and through its local agents in all states.

The purpose of Fire Prevention Week is not only to reduce the fire waste, but to save human lives. In doing that, further reductions in the average cost of insurance will be justified—a cost that has consistently declined for many years.

JACKSON-TWP HAS 4-H CLUB MEETING

The Jackson-Twp 4-H Clothing, Pig and Calf Club members presented a Club Achievement program at the Farm Bureau meeting which was held in the school building at Fox, last Thursday evening.

The program was comprised of demonstrations, musical selections, a Style Show and sketches depicting the accomplishments obtained in the 4-H Club projects which have been conducted throughout the summer program.

Miss Mary Shortridge, leader of the Jackson-Twp Clothing Club and G. D. Bradley, leader of the 4-H Pig and Calf Club supervised the preparation and presentation of the program. James S. Swearingen, chairman of the farm bureau, in opening the meeting, stated that the 4-H Club work was a primary project of the organization. He complimented the leaders and the members upon their achievements.

H. S. Lewis, county agent, discussed 4-H Club Goals and the history of 4-H Club attainments throughout the state. Mr. Lewis also discussed the importance of good seed, thorough preparation of the seed bed, fertilization of wheat and the need of observing the Fly Safe Date if the 1932 wheat crop was to be insured for profitable returns.

WORK TOGETHER

Throughout the coming fall and winter, practically daily communication will take place between Braught's office and sections of the state where urgent relief becomes necessary.

Plans have been perfected whereby inspectors, employed by the state welfare department, will be sent out by the governor's committee to investigate conditions in communities where emergency plans for aid develop. The extent of the relief work in such instances will be dependent upon the nature of the report submitted by these inspectors.

KINGSTON

Rev. and Mrs. Yvo Wahn of Natick, Conn., were guests of Mr. and Mrs. George L. Borders and son, Lynn, Thursday and Friday.

Miss Marie Snyder presented two whistling solos at the Phila-thea Sunday school class meeting held at the home of Mrs. May Hettinger Thursday. Miss Snyder's last name was omitted in the report.

Mrs. Reuben May was taken to Chillicothe hospital Friday night.

MAYOR HASTINGS, LANCASTER, FOR WORK FUND, NOT CHARITY

LANCASTER, (Sp)—An employment fund, rather than a charity fund, is Mayor Hastings' idea for Lancaster relief work this winter. He is in favor of changing the method used last year by the City Welfare Association which operated a supply store where food and clothing were given out to the needy. Some times dependency was encouraged, the Mayor believes and is more inclined to the plan of giving charity in return for work. This of course would not apply in case of helpless women and children needing aid, but would apply to the men of families seeking assistance.

The relief fund would be used to provide employment for local residents only and efforts will be made this year as last to discourage the influx of charity-seekers from surrounding communities.

MEN WOULD EARN

Such work as would be provided would be not merely to make the recipients of aid earn what they receive, but to employ their labor at tasks that would be of benefit to the community and constitute a tangible return for the funds subscribed and expended in eliminating "want" and "hardship" among the poor.

It is planned to enlarge such activities as that provided by the woodlot which has been for some time a useful adjunct to Maywood Mission. Applicants for charity would be directed to the woodpile, there to earn what is given them by chopping firewood, which in turn will be distributed among the needy for fuel.

The Salvation Army is preparing to open a woodlot and have been donated a supply of old railroad ties by the Scioto Valley Traction Co. and the C. & O. Ry. for this purpose.

Use of one of the city's vacant lots will probably be donated to the Salvation Army for a wood yard.

Mayor Hastings believes community response to an appeal for an employment fund will be more spirited than if money were to be used for charity without any obligations on the part of the beneficiaries.

Impersonations of actors in different periods of the county's history, clothing in keeping with the times the vehicles were used, farm implements used many decades ago, together with various relics these conveyances will carry, will all have a place in the pageant.

After judges have an opportunity to view each exhibit, there will be a grand procession around the half mile race track. Walter C. Keeney, parade chairman, declares there will be more than enough for a solid line around the oval.

Groom Colored Lad For Berth

A short, brisk scrimmage with the Circleville Merchant football team is on the schedule for this evening when Coach Pete Herberholz will drill his Red and Black gridiron warriors with Grandview's Central Buckeye league team as the objective.

The condition of Freddie Smith from whom much was expected in the Grandview game continues to worry Coach Herberholz. Smith was hurt in the Walnut-twp game, suffering a badly bruised nose and with a bruised shoulder is not in, by any means, perfect condition. Marle Davis was tried in Lancaster game, but he too, was suffering from a bruised shoulder and couldn't get going. Charlie Davis, colored freshman, if he can learn to block, is the boy who may be placed at the running half-back position against Grandview.

The Tiger mentor worked hard and long with Davis Monday evening trying to teach him the rudiments of blocking and toward the end of the session he showed promise.

Don't be surprised if this lad, termed, by his mates, "just a little boy from Briartown," gets a chance and makes good against Grandview.

OHIO U. WILL FACE BUTLER

Don Peden's Team, Edged By 7-6 Count by Indiana, Prepares For Hoosiers.

ATHENS, O., Following their first defeat in almost three years the Ohio University Bobcats returned to Athens from Bloomington, Indiana, to begin preparations for meeting another Hoosier team at the end of the week. Ohio lost to Indiana University, Coach Hayes' Western conference team, 7 to 6.

Butler College, of Indianapolis, will come to the Bobcat lair on October 3, for a second meeting in consecutive years. Last year the Ohioans won from the Indianapolis boys 12 to 7 in a night game played at the Hoosier capital.

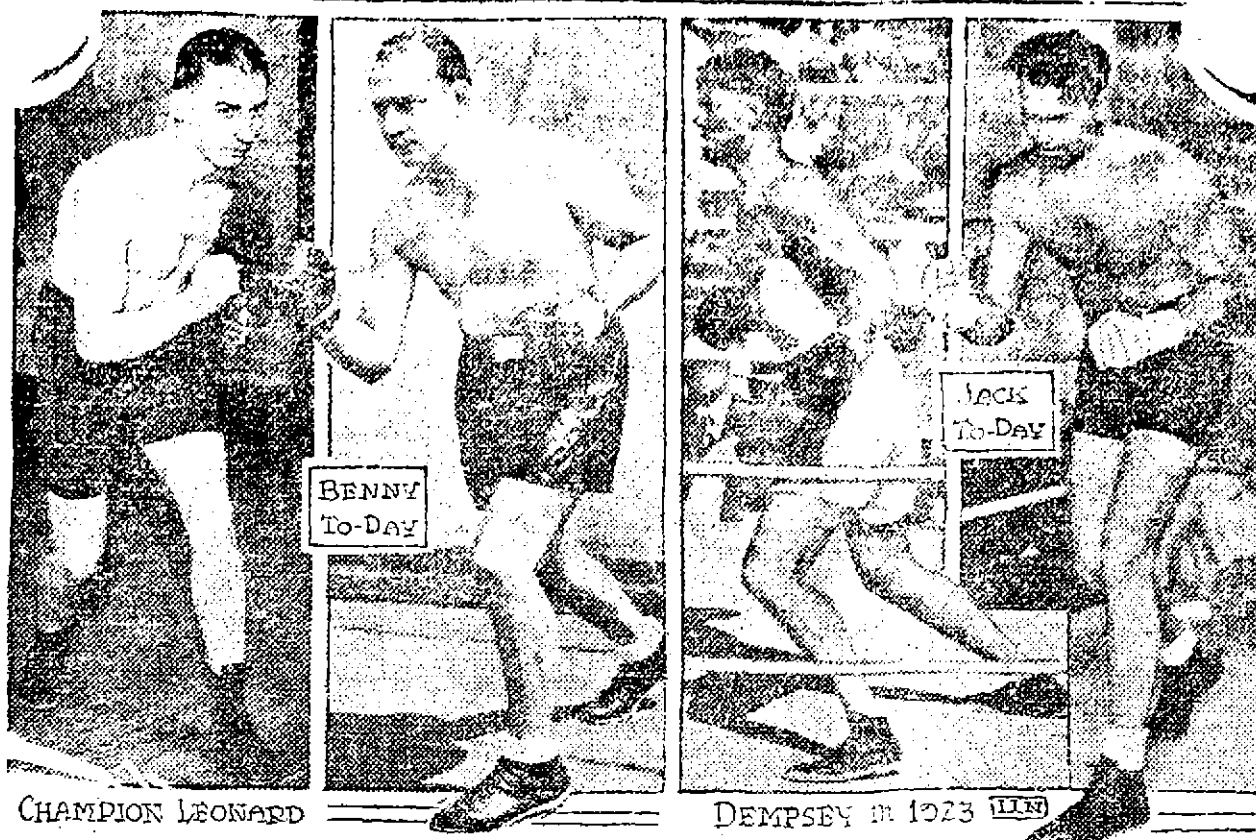

Ohio University will meet an Indiana foe for a third time this season when on November 7, the Green and White re-invades the neighboring state for a game with DePauw University at Greencastle. DePauw is this year holding a "trial" membership in the Buckeye Conference.

A superiority in weight and in replacement strength enabled the University of Indiana gridlers last Saturday to break a Bobcat winning streak of 10 consecutive games. Only in the third quarter, however, was the Green and White forced to give ground to its Big Ten opponent, practically all of the play of the first two and last stanzas taking place in Hoosier territory. Ohio had several scoring opportunities but was able to realize upon but one of them. Indiana had only one opportunity to score and made good on it.

A pass over the goal line and a successful point after touchdown gave Indiana its seven counters. A blocked punt, covered by Snyder, Ohio tackle, back of the goal, accounted for the six Bobcat markers. Clark Gabriel, Piqua, Bobcat quarter, failed to get the ball between the cross bars for the extra point. In a recent practice session Gabriel was successful in 74 out of 75 attempts at placement kicking.

BARTERING OPENS MINES
CANON CITY, Colo.—A return to primitive methods of barter is credited with putting 122 miners to work in a coal mine near Canon City. The mine had been idle since April because of no orders. Mine operators hit upon the expedient of trading coal for wheat. Farmers in western Kansas agreed to trade on the basis of 26 cents per bushel for the wheat and from $4 to $5.50 per ton for the coal. Thousands of tons of coal have been ordered and the mine now has good prospects of remaining open through the winter.

Can They Come Back? Ask Fistic Fans

CHAMPION LEONARD

DEMPSEY IN 1923

The attempt of two former and popular champions to stage comebacks is engaging the interest of fight fans throughout the country. Benny Leonard, holder of the lightweight crown for seven years prior to his retirement in 1924, is following the lead of Jack Dempsey in starting the long trek back to fistic fame. The ex-champions in their first return bouts recently each scored three knockouts. Their opponents, of course, were "setups" but the former titleholders proved there is still some kick in the old mitts. Benny's return to the ring is under the wing of Jack Keans, Dempsey's former pilot. Maybe Old Man Time is a tougher opponent than either Jack or Benny realize.

Connie Mack Is Termed Game's Best Outfielder

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 29.—The other afternoon when the Athletics were finishing a snappy workout for the World Series encounters with the St. Louis Cardinals an Eastern sports writer asked George Hass, our center fielder.

FIRST IN LINE
ST. LOUIS, Sept. 29.—To Horace L. Enspaugh, 29, goes the distinction of being the first fan to wait for the bleacher ticket window at Sportsman's park to open for the beginning of the world series.

Enspaugh, an unemployed hotel clerk, took up his stand in front of the ticket window yesterday, determined not to budge from the spot until Thursday when the series opens between the Cardinals and the Athletics.

who he thought was the American league's best outfielder.

"Connie Mack," quickly answered Hass.

"Yeah?" Drawled Hass, "Well just watch him play the outfield with his scorecard. He hasn't made an error in years. He's the phantom super-star of all-time outfielding. Never out of position, that's Connie."

Hass told the truth. Though he sits on the bench, Mack cuts off more hits than any three outfielders in the league. He robs opponents of singles, reduces labeled doubles and triples to singles and in fact gets everything except balls clouted over the fence or into the bleachers.

Connie makes it his business to know every man who faces his pitching staff. He shifts his outfield—and also the infield—according to the A's pitcher. He fielded the outfield for Jimmy Wilson, the Cardinals' catcher, the same way for Grove as for Hamamel and Hoyt.

When Groves and Barnshaw are pitching, our outfield shifts to the right for right-handed batters because Connie realizes few men can pull a Grove or Barnshaw fast ball to left field. And when Wilson is battling against Grove or Barnshaw, the outfield shifts even more to the right. He's learned that Wilson is a right field hitter.

Our outfield also is switched according to whether the A's are two or three runs ahead, tied or trailing. Not always, for then the other club might do something to upset Connie's strategy. If ahead we're liable to pitch to a batter's strength instead of to his weakness. If the batter hits a fast ball, Connie may have Hass back to center field and instruct the pitcher to give the batter the first one he can get. If he hits it, but within easy range of the speedy Hass, our center fielder seldom has been caught out of position or uncanny, because Connie realizes few men can pull a Grove or Barnshaw fast ball to left field. And when Wilson is battling against Grove or Barnshaw, the outfield shifts even more to the right. He's learned that Wilson is a right field hitter.

PORTSMOUTH, NEW YORK GAME EXPECTED TO BE WON IN AIR

Chris Cagle, Doug Wycoff, Johnny Kitzmiller and Butch Gibson Are Strongmen of Invading Giant Eleven at River City Wednesday; Spartans Will Match Wits and Strength With Army Man's Squad.

PORTSMOUTH, O., Sept. 29.—Gridiron history will be written Wednesday night in the opinion of the game's best fans and critics when the Portsmouth Spartans play hosts to Red Cagle's New York Giants on Universal stadium field here.

Last year in the tightest pennant race yet seen in the Joe Carr loop, the Giants placed second, only a few points behind the World Champion Green Bay Packers. The last game of the season, a 4-6 tie between the Packers and the Spartans, gave Green Bay the title and relegated the Giants to second money.

With a much stronger line and a more versatile backfield than last year's, the Giants have shown exceptional strength in each of their 1931 grid tiffs so far. They will undoubtedly prove a worthy foe for the Spartans. Breaks of the game will probably play their part in deciding the winner.

While both backfield boast exceptional ball carriers, it is expected that the aerial route will be favored as a medium for gaining touchdowns. Both lines are heavy.

The Giants have three of the best passers in the game, Red Cagle, Doug Wycoff, Georgia Tech triple threat, and Butch Gibson, a running guard. The former Army star is adept at flipping the oval as he is in running back punts while Gibson has already earned his niche in the pro ball of fame for his own unique method of flinging the sphere. Gibson tosses them left handed, his south-paw delivery being deceptive to all save his team mates.

Johnny Kitzmiller, Oregon star, is also a member of the backfield. Facing Cagle, Gibson and Wycoff, will be a quartet of passers on the Spartan side of the line in the persons of Glenn Presnell, former Nebraska ace, Dutch Clark, of Colorado, Tony Holm, Alabama's All-American and Father Lumpkin, Georgia Tech. These boys can carry the ball as well as pass victories over, in fact they can do everything with it any backfield man can, wins from Brooklyn and Chicago being concrete evidence.

Coach Clark has retained five ends to this late date and will go into the fray with such adept tacklers and pass snatchers as Long, Ebding, McKally, Mitchell and Peterson.

Business concerns of the home city advertise because they believe in themselves and in their merchandise and want others to do the same.

The community booster spirit of the business men of the home city has not only done the most to build up the city, but does the most to keep it growing.

All business men owe an obligation to the city that supports them. Most of them realize this fact, a few don't.

Most business men boost the home city and are intensely loyal to it.

They have prospered with it as it has prospered.

They have given unstinted service to the home city and put back in it such profits as they have made.

MOST LOCAL BUSINESS MEN REALIZE THAT THEY ARE IN THE PUBLIC SERVICE AND ARE ALWAYS READY TO DO MORE THAN THEIR SHARE IN ITS DEVELOPMENT.

LOCAL CITIZENS SHOULD SUPPORT LOCAL BUSINESS MEN TO THE LIMIT.

'IRISH' TEAMS IN LIMELIGHT OVER COUNTRY

Notre Dame, St. Mary's and Fordham Watched by Nation's Grid Critics.

By COPELAND C. BURG
NEW YORK, Sept. 29.—Eyes of the nation's football fans today turned a trifle emerald in color as they centered on three teams, representing institutions of learning where an Irish harp always gets a cheer. Notre Dame dominates the mid-west area this coming Saturday, getting a genuine test from Indiana. St. Mary's of California, the Notre Dame of the west, plays California at Berkeley and Fordham, New York City's big threat, entertains West Virginia at the Polo grounds.

The only other big games are Northwestern against Nebraska and Pittsburgh versus Iowa, although such clashes as Georgia Tech-South Carolina, Texas-Missouri and Tulane-Texas A and M. will snatch plenty of sectional attention.

EAST IN PRACTICES
Most of the leading eastern teams meet push-overs. Yale plays Maine, Harvard picks on Bates and Princeton gets Amherst, while Army will unravel a good practice with Knox.

Because Coach "Slip" Madigan's gnatpunching gaelic bowled over the ambitious University of Southern California eleven last Saturday, St. Mary's will probably draw the national spotlight in clashing with California. And because of their brilliant aerial attack against the Trojans, St. Mary's must be rated a choice over California's bears.

Of course those California scouts found out plenty about Madigan's winning ways on Saturday and St. Mary's task is going to be a little more difficult this week-end. California will be on its toes against the line attacks that sucked up Southern California's secondaries and the Knute Rockne pass barrage that followed to so bewilder the gentlemen from Los Angeles. But Madigan is a resourceful fellow, and may have a brand new bag of tricks to offer in Berkeley.

IRISH FAVORED
Notre Dame should win from Indiana. This game at Bloomington will mark Coach "Hunk" Anderson's debut with the Irish from South Bend.

Indiana has not had much time to point for Notre Dame but is certain, the Bloomington boys would chuck half their chances for a big ten conference title to be the first outfit to bump off the Rockneless ramblers.

Fordham may meet an upset in West Virginia. Coach Cavanaugh's charges hardly got a good workout against Thiel last week and Fordham's line is just as green and wobbly as West Virginia thinks it is.

We like St. Mary's chances very much, are inclined to Notre Dame and willing to be convinced about Fordham.

Monday Club Topic 'Women'

The Monday Club held its second session of the season in its club room Monday evening.

During the business meeting which preceded the program, an invitation was read from the Women's club of Chillicothe to attend the conference of the Southeast District to be held in Chillicothe Oct. 29 and 30, and the following delegates, and alternates were chosen to represent the Monday club at the conference: delegates, Mrs. C. E. Groce, Miss Clara Littleton, Miss Helen Marion, Mrs. R. E. Lilly; alternates, Mrs. Percy May, Mrs. Ray Reid, Mrs. D. V. Courtright, Miss Anna Florence.

The club voted to donate a tree to be planted on the Berger Hospital grounds Nov. 1.

Mrs. R. E. Bales reported that the Monday club has assisted the Benevolent Association and Red Cross in the distribution of vegetable seeds to forty families in Circleville during the early summer.

Mrs. Evan Reichelderfer was appointed County Chairman in charge of the annual sale of useful articles made by the blind. This sale will begin in the near future and the cooperation of the public in purchasing these articles will be greatly appreciated by the club.

Members of the Monday club will assist the Benevolent Association in serving meals at its booth Friday evening of the Pumpkin Show week.

The program on "Women" was in charge of Mrs. Glenn Nickerson, who presented Miss Grace Moodie as the first speaker. Miss Moodie's subject was "Women of French Salons" and she very delightfully described some of the most notable French women of the 17th and 18th centuries who were "The most superb hostesses the world has ever known." They cultivated the art of brilliant conversation and by their tact, charm and sympathy drew out all that was noblest and best in their companions.

The word "Salon" had an entirely different meaning in that day from our present understanding of the term. It stood for the highest art of social life which is today completely overshadowed by greed, materialism and sensationalism.

Miss Marion Hitler followed Miss Moodie with a very interesting paper on "Women of Shakespeare's Time." She described the elaborate type of dress of that period and drew a graphic comparison of the lives of Queen Elizabeth and Mary Queen of Scots. "Queen Elizabeth was first a statesman, and then a woman. Mary was first a woman and then a statesman."

After Miss Hitler's discourse, Miss Nell Weldon read an excellent paper on "Women of Shakespeare's Plays." She interestingly touched upon the characters of Lady Macbeth, Portia, Juliet, Rosalind and Ophelia.

The course is based on a thorough study of the basic principles and principal factors which underlie the subject of real estate.

You can continue to respect your friends if you will learn to say "no" when they need money.

NEWS OF HOMES AND HOME FOLKS

Published by STEVENSON'S

VOL. 3. NO. 38. Tuesday, September 25, 1934

OHIO HISTORY DAY

On next Sunday afternoon, load up the family, put in the grub basket, and drive the old Lizzie down to Logan Elm Park. Aim to be there about 2 o'clock so that you may enjoy the folks that will be there and listen in on the fine program that has been arranged for your entertainment and education.

After visiting with your friends, at the completion of the program, enjoy a picnic supper under one of the beautiful trees. You'll enjoy the outing, the folk, the program, and the picnic.

As you probably already know, this celebration is an annual affair, sponsored by the Ohio History Day Association, of which Mrs. Dr. Howard Jones is the hard working president and, incidentally, the founder. The purpose of the Association is to keep alive the early history of our state, especially of this community. Thousands of people have attended these affairs and many of them return each year. Mr. Chas. E. Blanchard, an attorney and a speaker of note, of Columbus, has been secured for an oration.

The Ashville band will furnish the music. Admission to the park is free and plenty of free parking space for your auto. The parking will be handled by competent men, under the direction of Mr. Roy Sampson, Superintendent of the Mound City State Park, at Chillicothe.

Our thanks are extended to the city officials that has charge of the drinking fountains (?) of this city. The water has ceased to flow over the top of the horse-drawn fountain (?) across the street from our store! The drain has been cleaned and we hope it will continue to be kept clean. Women and children may now quench their thirst without getting their clothing wet. Again, we say THANKS.

Wife: "Dear, tomorrow is Ohio History Day."

Hubby: "No, let him live. He didn't have anything to do with it."

I kill the turkey?"

One of our readers saw an item in RTT about that Studio Couch that we have on our floor. She said that she wanted something in her home that would give the family something comfortable upon which to recline when tired or ill, but could not make up her mind just what she wanted. Well, if she is desirous of a real comfy couch—something that will induce sleep to the most conscience-stricken soul—she'll choose that Studio Couch. It's not a thing of beauty, we'll admit, but we'll say that when it comes to a place for a nap, it can't be beat.

A nice shipment of radio benches has just arrived. They're covered in green or red velour and priced at $2.60.

Here's a hot one! A traveling salesman for a factory that makes a low-priced line of circulating heaters (some folks would call them "heaters") said that a certain dealer had sold an imitation of a Heater to a customer, and had already been paid over $100 by the customer although delivery of her heater had not been made.

The evening following the day of the sale to the lady, she happened to hear the Heater-town program over radio station WLW and she became convinced that she should have purchased an Estate Heater. The next day she called upon the dealer and told him that she didn't want the heater that she had purchased, but that she wanted a genuine Heater. The dealer had to cancel the sale that he had made and, since he did not have the Heater for the Estate, had to call upon an Estate dealer to help him out. The lady got her Estate Heater.

People are learning, and learning rapidly, that there is only ONE Heater—the Estate Heater—the circulating heater that WARMS THE FLOORS, gives MORE HEAT with LESS FUEL and is clean. Of course, we sell only Heater. Drop in and let us demonstrate to you the HOW and WHY. Let us show you HOW and WHY the Heater is the leading heater for small homes. Do it now, don't wait.

Speaking of Estate products above, we are reminded that a new price-list of gas ranges has come in. It shows what is known as the 3000-line. Basing our retail prices on these new prices, we're able to sell the famous Estate gas range, with the fresh-air oven, at prices never so low. For instance—We'll sell you a fully equipped (choice of Ivory and Green, Ivory and Ebony, or White and Gray), with insulated oven, and with Therm-Estate oven heat control, that sold last year for $120, and up to the last few days for $92.50, for as little as $73.50. We offer these ranges at this price subject to prior sale. We only have a very few. So, if you are a new-customer, a high-class range, get busy.

Judge: "Do you understand the nature of an oath?"

Boy: "Do I? Ain't I your caddy?"

The Ohio Bankers' Magazine, for the current month, contains a very interesting article about one of Circleville's coming bankers—Clark Will. It's hard to keep a good man down. They will bob up.

A Clovebrook inner-spring mattress placed on a De Luxe double-deck spring makes a bed that is ideal, especially these cool mornings. A Clovebrook formerly $25.00 now only $19.95.

FRATERNITY HOUSE DAMAGED BY FIRE

HANOVER, N. H., Sept. 29.—Flames of undetermined origin swept through Sigma Chi fraternity house on Dartmouth college campus today, injuring a Pittsburgh student and an Attleboro, Mass., jewelry salesman and making sixteen undergraduates temporarily homeless.

The seventeen men in the three-story wooden house were aroused in the nick of time by Bursar Max Norton. Observing fire and smoke rushing up from the basement toward the stairs, Norton ran into the burning structure and shouted a warning at each door.
